

Let's Talk Trash!

REDUCING SINGLE USE PLASTICS AT THE NATIONAL AQUARIUM

Wednesday February 13

12 - 1 p.m. Tawes Office Building

C-1 Conference Room

(Brown bag lunches welcome. Cafeteria on site.)

Featuring: Maggie Ostdahl, Conservation Operations
NATIONAL AQUARIUM

The Chesapeake and Coastal Service Unit is pleased to offer a new series of "Trash Talks" designed to spotlight the serious impacts of the trash that enters our waters and oceans and becomes "marine debris." Marine debris is a complex global problem with disturbing impacts to wildlife and humans.

Trash Talks are open to department staff and the public to raise awareness about marine debris and some of the local, regional, and larger scale work being done to find solutions. Please bring a friend or colleague and "let's talk trash!"

580 Taylor Avenue, Annapolis, MD 21401
For more information contact
Kimberly Hernandez at 410-260-8789
or visit dnr.maryland.gov/ccs