Maryland Migratory Game Bird Stamp

This stamp must be purchased by any person hunting migratory game birds (doves, rails, coots, snipe, woodcock, and waterfowl) in Maryland, without exception. Prior exemptions for landowners hunting on their own property and seniors have been eliminated. The Harvest Information Program (HIP) permit is issued in conjunction with the Maryland Migratory Game Bird Stamp. Hunters must possess the printed receipt showing proof of purchase of the Maryland Migratory Game Bird Stamp while hunting migratory game birds.

New Light Goose Conservation Order Season

The greater snow goose population has grown to over 1.4 million birds. Because of their damage to habitat and crops, wildlife managers are now allowing certain hunting methods in an effort to reduce their numbers. The hunting methods for the new 2010 Light Goose Conservation Order Season include unplugged shotguns, electronic calls of light geese, and extended shooting hours (one half hour before sunrise to one half hour after sunset). A permit is required to participate in the special season. Hunters are required to have the permit receipt in their possession while hunting light geese during the Conservation Order season. The $5 Snow Goose Conservation Order Hunting Season Permit can be obtained from any DNR sport license agent, online at <http://www.dnr.maryland.gov/>, or by phone (1-800-918-2870). Participants are also required to have a valid Maryland hunting license (or a resident Delaware license) and a 2009-2010 Maryland Migratory Game Bird Hunting Stamp. A federal duck stamp is not required for the Conservation Order season.

National Youth Waterfowl Hunting Day, November 7, 2009

Hunters age 15 or younger may participate in the National Youth Waterfowl Hunting Day if they possess a valid license (or are exempt from the license requirement) and possess a Maryland Migratory Game Bird Stamp. Youth waterfowl hunters must be accompanied by a licensed (or exempt from license requirement), unarmed adult age 21 or older. The bag limits for the National Youth Waterfowl Hunting Day are: 2 Canada geese, 15 snow geese, 2 brant, and 15 coots. The duck bag limit is 6 ducks (including mergansers) but may include no more than: 5 long-tailed ducks, 4 scoters, 4 mallards (max. 2 hen mallards), 3 wood ducks, 2 redheads, 2 hooded mergansers, 2 scaup, 1 pintail, 1 fulvous tree duck, 1 mottled duck, 1 canvasback, and 1 black duck.

Special Notice for Waterfowl Hunters

In Maryland, it is unlawful to hunt waterfowl with the aid of baiting (placing feed such as corn, wheat, salt, or other feed that constitutes a lure or enticement). An area is considered by law to be baited for 10 days after removal of the bait. Furthermore, waterfowl may not be hunted in areas where seed-producing plants (natural or agricultural) have been manipulated (e.g., mowed, knocked-down, etc.). It is also unlawful to hunt waterfowl in areas where small grains have been top sown or broadcast on top of the soil, leaving the grain available to feeding birds. Before hunting can occur over areas where small grains have been top sown or broadcast, all seed must have germinated and growth must have occurred, or the seed has been covered by soil, or completely removed by other means at least 10 days prior to hunting. Strict Liability, What Hunters Should Know- Maryland's baiting regulation is more restrictive than federal regulations. In Maryland's migratory bird baiting regulation it is not necessary for a hunter to know that an area is baited to be in violation. A violation of this regulation is considered a 'strict liability' offense. It is incumbent upon the hunter to take all reasonable steps to ensure that the hunting area is not or has not been baited. The Maryland DNR recommends the following:

1. The hunter should familiarize themselves with normal farming practices in the area (consult with USDA State Extension Specialist);
2. The hunter should make inquiries of the hunting guide, farmer, and/or landowner regarding the farming practices and any possible baiting on or near the hunting area;
3. The hunter should thoroughly inspect the hunting area prior to hunting. Leave the hunting site if you find grain or feed in an area and are uncertain about why it is there.

Tagging is required even if someone else is transporting the bird for you or the bird has been left for cleaning, storage (even temporary storage), shipment, or taxidermy purposes.

Keys to Aid Hunters in Identification of Live Decoys

It is a violation of State and Federal regulation to hunt waterfowl on an area where tame or captive live ducks, geese, or swans are present unless the birds are, and have been for a period of 10 consecutive days before hunting, removed from the area or confined within an enclosure which substantially reduces the audibility of their calls and totally conceals the birds from the sight of wild migratory waterfowl.

Live decoys may include but are not limited to the following:

1. Captive-raised and domestic waterfowl that have been released that do not exhibit the natural wariness of man associated with a wild bird.

Open Season for Harlequin Ducks and Swans.
Shooting hours for waterfowl listed here are one half hour before sunrise to sunset except Light Geese Conservation Season- one half hour before sunrise to one half hour after sunset. All dates are inclusive. Possession limit for waterfowl is twice the daily bag limit unless otherwise noted.

2. Waterfowl that do not leave the area when hands are clapped and/or a shotgun is discharged.
3. Wounded waterfowl that have gone un-retrieved.
4. Waterfowl whose wings are either pinioned or whose outer primary feathers have been cut or removed to render flight impossible.
5. Captive-raised, domestic ducks and geese (such as Muscovy ducks, Egyptian geese, etc.) that are poor flyers because of their weight and wing development. If these birds do not exhibit the natural wariness of man associated with a wild bird, they may be considered a live decoy; and
6. Live ducks, geese, or swans that are either tethered or penned at or near a hunting location.

As a waterfowl hunter you are responsible for determining whether your hunting area is influenced by live decoys. Before hunting you should:

- Familiarize yourself with Federal and State waterfowl hunting regulations.
- Ask the landowner, his agent, lessee, or your host, guide, and hunting partners if captive-raised mallards or other domestic waterfowl have been released on the area and inspect the area for the presence of live decoys.
- Suspect the presence of live decoys if you see mallard ducks or domestic waterfowl displaying a lack of caution or wariness of man.
- Suspect the presence of live decoys if you see mallard ducks or domestic waterfowl moving toward or approaching a vehicle, boat, or person.
- Suspect the presence of live decoys if you see mallard ducks or domestic waterfowl that do not exhibit the natural wariness of man and are reluctant to leave the hunting area when you approach them.
- Abandon your plans to hunt waterfowl if you find tame birds in the area and are uncertain about why they are there.

(These examples do not represent an all-inclusive list of live decoy conditions or circumstances.)
If you believe you have a live decoy problem, you should not hunt waterfowl at the location until 10 days after the removal of the problem birds. See the DNR website at <http://www.dnr.maryland.gov/wildlife/livedecoys.asp> for additional information about live decoys.
