Re: Riggleman family position concerning the future use of “The Riggleman Preserve at Jug Bay”

Dear Janet,

Chris Swarth asked that our family confirm our “intent” for the future use of the property that we sold to Anne Arundel County (AAC), March 5, 2004. This letter summarizes the internal and external discussions about the future of the Preserve that took place prior to, and during our family’s contacts with the Trust for Public Land (TPL) and AAC. These discussions occurred between October of 2002 and the day of the sale.

Our parents John Randolph and Grace Inghram Riggleman purchased Jug Bay Farm during the period between 1942 and 1955. It was their intent that this environmentally fragile property be preserved and not developed. From the beginning of our family discussions concerning the future of the property, it was and remains today, that the property should be preserved forever. You may remember the day that I called you during budget hearings that I expressed that intent to you. That same intent was repeated to Betty Dixon, Governor Schaefer, Chris Swarth and Debi Osborne of TPL. We carried the same consistent message to our neighbors.

We believed (and still do) that this fairly simple and straightforward “intent” would be best accomplished by having the overall structure and covenants of Jug Bay Wetlands Sanctuary extended to the Riggleman Preserve when our lease expires in about 13 years. To us that would mean that the property would be used as a preserve for research and education purposes forever. Had that same intent not been embraced by TPL and AAC, we would have sought other opportunities.

We have had an excellent working relationship with you and your staff. It has been a real pleasure to work with all of you. We look forward to many more years of collaboration that will benefit many people for generations to come.

If any points in our summary need to be clarified, we will be happy to do so.
Thanks again for all that you have done to preserve AAC land for future generations!

Sincerely,

Cathryn Riggleman Finch  John R. Riggleman, Jr.  James D. Riggleman
